ALL ABOUT ME: PASSIONS & LITTLE JOYS

About Myself

If you really want to know who I am, look at the things I love and the moments that bring me peace. I'm the kind of person who can easily get lost in a good manga or spend hours watching movies with my loved ones. Fashion is a huge part of how I express myself truly, and as a proud silver jewelry person, the right accessories always complete the fit. Animals hold a special place in my heart, I honestly can't choose between cats and dogs because I love them both equally! Above all, you'll rarely catch me without my favorite comfort drink, coffee, as I'm always eager to explore new things that spark my curiosity and catch my interest.

Achivement & Goal

Fueling the Future: My ultimate achievement is to finish my college studies so I can finally provide for my family—especially my mom, who has been working so hard to support my education. Alongside that, I want to chase the career that my heart truly wants for my future.

Stepping Up: My goal is to keep improving myself every single day so I can successfully bring my skills into the corporate world.

Lifestyle & Vibe

For me, life is about keeping a good fashion sense and nailing that fit check every single day, using style to showcase my personality. I'm also obsessed with taking pictures of sunsets because I just love seeing them every day. And whenever school works and stress get a bit too heavy, you'll always find me going outside to unwind, breathe, and reset.
